Your Party

We will always work with you to ensure we have everything just how you want it. From music to presentation, for us its all about the finer details.

Tips and ideas to help throw the perfect party

Every party is different so I always work with my couples to find out their preferences and how they imagine the event to go. Generally I play a broad range of music from different genres and decades to suit your crowd but again I will always aim to represent you and your requirements on your special day. I have put together these tips based on my experience as a Wedding DJ.

1. The Bride Sets the Tone

One of the best ways to get your guests dancing is by setting the example yourself. When the bride hits the dance floor, it sends a powerful signal to everyone else. Guests are much more likely to join in if they see the bride and groom enjoying themselves. So, don't be shy—get out there and dance!

2. Kick Off with High Energy Songs

Immediately after your first dance, have your DJ play at least three high-energy songs back-to-back. The floor will already be packed with guests from the first dance, and a sequence of lively tracks will keep the momentum going. This is a crucial time to set the tone for the rest of the night.

3. Controlling the Lighting

Ambiance is key. Ensure the house lights are turned off or dimmed once the dancing starts. Good lighting helps create an intimate and exciting atmosphere that encourages guests to let loose and hit the dance floor. Uplighting, fairy lights, or a disco ball can add to the party vibe without being too harsh.

4. Add Fun Props

Props like glow sticks, funky glasses, hats, and inflatable instruments can add an element of fun and excitement to the dance floor. They're great icebreakers and can encourage even the most reserved guests to join in the fun. Plus, they make for some fantastic photos!

5. Choose the Right Venue Size

The space-to-guest ratio plays a significant role in the overall atmosphere. Booking a venue that's too large for your guest count can make the room feel empty and discourage dancing. For instance, if you have 50 guests, avoid booking a hall that can hold 300 people. A more appropriately sized venue creates a cosy, inviting space that encourages guests to mingle and dance.

6. Trust Your DJ

While it's great to have a few favourite songs, handing your DJ a 100-song "must play" playlist can actually hinder the flow of the night. Good DJs know how to read the crowd and adjust the music accordingly to keep the energy up. If you have specific requests, a shorter list of must-plays is ideal. Alternatively, provide your DJ with a few genres or artists you love, and let them work their magic.

7. Consider the Crowd

Think about the mix of guests at your wedding. Are they mostly young, or is there a wide age range? Make sure there's something for everyone. A good DJ will know how to blend different genres and eras to keep all your guests entertained. Don't hesitate to discuss your guest demographic with me ahead of time.

8. Don't Be That Bride

We've all heard the stories: a bride provides a strange playlist of songs that might be great for a car ride but doesn't translate to a dance floor. The DJ then tries to save the night by playing a popular track that gets everyone up and dancing, only to be told to turn it off because it's not on the playlist. Later, the bride complains that nobody danced. Trust your DJ's expertise—they know how to keep the party alive and the dance floor packed. Great DJs play the music you didn't know you wanted to hear!

I hope this helps with your wedding planning. If you need any help or have any questions, you can contact me directly or we can arrange a call to go through your plans and ideas in more detail.
